FactWise

Role: Software Development Engineer
Technology stack: React, Typescript
Location: Mumbai

FactWise is a fully funded, early-stage b2b SaaS startup offering solutions to a global client base. The flagship product is an end-to-end S2P solution designed to transform procurement for product manufacturing companies across industries. Our singular focus is to create a truly distinctive procurement platform that delights users and provides sustainable positive impact to the organizations we serve. We achieve this by providing transparency and insights to leaders, streamlining and automating processes to improve efficiency, and driving bottom-line impact by unlocking savings potential.

FactWise received funding from a US-based VC, and we are currently deploying our MVP to initial clients. With exciting sales conversations in advanced stages across Europe, US, India markets, we have strong relations with leading VC firms and a great journey ahead. Our core team has members from MIT, Stanford, McKinsey, Amazon US, and we'd love to be joined by passionate, hardworking self-starters looking to align their growth journey with ours.

.

Responsibilities:

As a member of the development group, you will be primarily responsible for the design, development, and maintenance of the product:

- Help define and create frontend architecture and deployment using React with Typescript in an agile environment with lots of ownership and active mentoring
- Work with the Product and Design teams to build new features to solve business problems and fill business needs
- Participate in code reviews to create robust and maintainable code
- Work in an agile environment where quick iterations and good feedback are a way of life
- Interact with other stakeholders for requirement, design discussions and for adoption of new features
- Communicate and coordinate with our support and professional services teams to solve customer issues
- Help scale our platform as we expand our product across various markets and verticals globally

As a young, fresh startup, we are hoping to be joined by self-starting, hardworking, passionate individuals who are committed to delivering their best, who can grow into future leaders of FactWise.

Recruitment process:

Assignment
Technical rounds
Non- technical rounds

Contact details: priyal@factwise.io

We are excited to explore possibilities for how FactWise's growth journey may align with yours!